

Currency and Accuracy of Information

WITT has taken reasonable steps to ensure that the information which appears on this website is current and accurate. WITT reserves the right, notwithstanding, to review this data at any time and to make changes to programmes, regulations, fee schedules, dates, staffing and any and all other such information published on the website, without prior notice.

To the extent permitted under current legislation, WITT is not liable for, nor makes any warranties or representations as to the accuracy of, this information. In particular, publication of a programme or course does not create an obligation on the part of WITT to offer such programme or course on the date(s) indicated, or in any structure or delivery mode as may be specified on this website.

Students and prospective students are advised always to liaise with the particular department offering the programme and course before making formal application, and also to check the currency of applicable regulations, fee schedules, application and enrolment procedures, and any and all other policies and procedures that may relate to the delivery of education and training at WITT.

Student Work

WITT takes no responsibility for any web pages that display student work. Such student work may not reflect WITT's operating policies and procedures, and WITT offers no warranty as to the authorisation, accuracy, authenticity, style or suitability of this information.

External Links

Any hypertext links or references to external websites, agencies or personnel are made in good faith. WITT assumes no responsibility, however, for any information that appears on, or is referenced from, these sites or sources.